

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The preface and introduction to part 1, volume 1, of this manual would seem to render a preface to this volume unrequired, if not superfluous. The compiler, however, deems it especially appropriate, in this instance, to express his appreciation of the voluntary and unqualified approval of the entire plan of the work by almost the entire number of delegates, and also to acknowledge his obligation to the officials and general public, without party distinction, who have so generously encouraged his efforts.

Who first advanced the idea of portraits in this manual is unknown to the compiler, but, after the first impression of "blazonry" and State expense, there came the irrepressible conviction of its worth to every member of the Convention, and, therefore, to the State, if available, at the beginning of a session of 175 delegates, very largely strangers to each other. Submission of the proposition to State officers and delegates, and also to several gentlemen (not delegates), eminent in State reputation, of long experience in the public service, and also noted for their repugnance to blazonry in any form, elicited their unanimous indorsement of the plan as one of "undoubted" utility in expediting the work of the Convention and consequent value to the State."

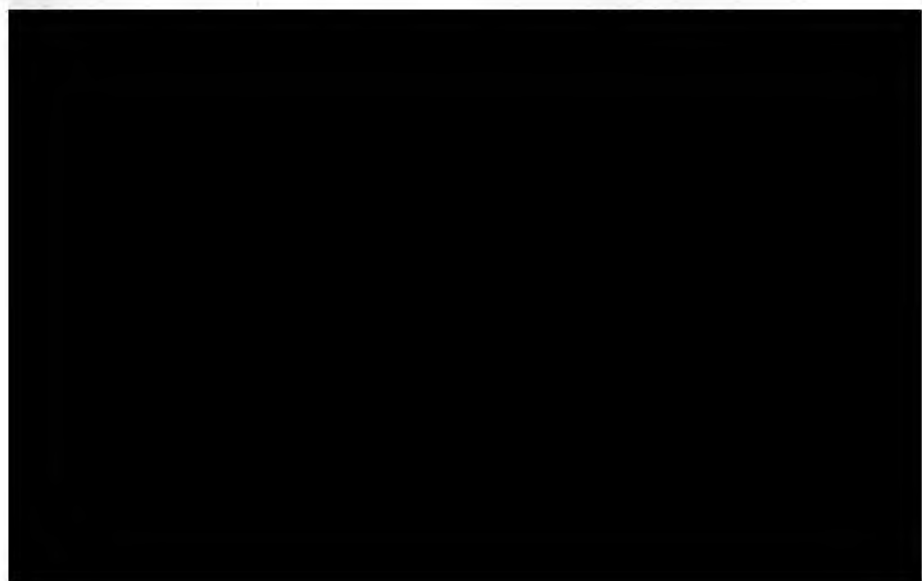

The circular letter of February 5, 1894, was then drawn up and submitted to the honorable State officers intrusted with the work, and, receiving their approval, was at once printed and mailed in a sealed envelope (to insure attention) to each delegate. One hundred and thirty-five photographs and sketches were promptly received and placed in hands of engravers and printers.

The delay in issuing this volume was occasioned by the failure of a few delegates to contribute their sketches prior to the organization. The result is the best justification for giving ample opportunity to all.

With profound respect, your obedient servant,

GEO. A. GLYNN, Compiler.

By W. H. Steele, Deputy.

GORHAM PARKS, Clerk of the Court.

WILLIAM H. SHANKLAND, Deputy Clerk.

HIRAM E SICKELS, Reporter of the Court.

The Court of Appeals succeeded the Court for the Trial of Impeachments and the Correction of Errors, so far as the correction of errors is concerned. As first organized, under the Constitution of 1846, it was composed of eight judges, four of whom were chosen by the electors of the State for a term of eight years, and four were elected from the class of Justices of the Supreme Court having the shortest time to serve. The Judges elected by the people were so classified that an election occurred every odd year. The Judges selected from the Supreme Court were taken each even year from the first, third, fifth and seventh districts, and each odd year from the second, fourth, sixth and eighth districts, and served one year. The Judge elected by the State at large having the shortest term to serve, acted as Chief Judge. The Clerk was elected by the people for the term of three years. The reporter was appointed by the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General, for three years.

The article in relation to the Judiciary, framed by the Convention of 1867-8, reorganized the Court of Appeals. This article was approved by the people at the general election held in 1869. In accordance with its provisions, the Court of Appeals is now composed of a Chief Judge and six Associate Judges, who "hold their office for the term of fourteen years, from and including the first day of January after their election," which was the year 1871. The first Judges were elected at a special election held in 1870. At the first election of Judges each elector voted for the Chief Judge and four only of the Associate Justices. Vacancies are to be filled at the next general election happening not less than three months after such vacancy occurs, and until so filled, by the Governor and Senate, or by the Governor alone, if the Senate is not in session.

Judges are prohibited, by the Constitution, from holding any other office or place of public trust; from exercising any power of appointment to public office and from practicing as attorney or counselor, or acting as referee. They are removable by concurrent resolution of both houses of the Legislature, if two-thirds of all the members elected to each branch concur therein.

The court is almost continually in session, taking recess as it may from time to time order.

The court has full power to correct or reverse the decisions of the Supreme Court. Five Judges constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of four is necessary to pronounce a judgment. If such concurrence be not had, the case must be reheard; but no more than two rehearings can be had, and if then four Judges do not concur, the judgment of the court below is affirmed. The Legislature may authorize the judgments, decrees and decisions of any inferior local court of record established in a city, having original civil jurisdiction, to be removed for review directly into the Court of Appeals.

The salary of the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals is $10,500, and of the Associate Judges $10,000, with an additional allowance of $2,000 each for expenses.

A Clerk is appointed by the Court to hold office during its pleasure. He gives a bond to the people of the State in the penalty of $25,000, with two sufficient sureties, for the faithful performance of his duties, which

THE SUPREME COURT.

The Constitution of 1846 abolished the Supreme Court as it then existed, and established a new one, having general jurisdiction in law and equity. The State is divided into eight Judicial Districts. The first district is entitled to seven Justices. The second, fifth, seventh and eighth districts to six, and the third, fourth and sixth districts to five, all of whom are elected by the voters of their respective districts. Although elected in districts, the jurisdiction of each Justice extends to every part of the State. The official term of Justices of the Supreme Court is fourteen years from the first day of January next after their election; but no person can hold such office longer than until the last day of December next after he shall be seventy years of age. They can hold no other office or public trust. If a vacancy occurs more than three months before a general election, it is filled at such election for a full term; but if it happen within three months of a general election, then it is filled by appointment of the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate if that body be in session, or if not in session, until the next general election.

The salaries of the Justices of this Court are $6,000 per annum; besides which they receive an annual allowance of $1,200 for their expenses (except in the First Judicial District).

The Justices of the Second Judicial District (except those residing in the county of Kings) receive an annual additional allowance of $2,500.

The Supreme Court possesses the powers and exercises the jurisdiction possessed and exercised by the Supreme Court, the Court of Chancery and the Circuit Court prior to the Constitution of 1846, so far as the same were consistent with that Constitution and the Judiciary act of 1847; that is to say, it has general jurisdiction in law and equity, and of all actions, civil and criminal.

Courts of first instance, or for the trial of issues of fact in civil cases, are held by one Justice, and are called Circuit Courts; while courts for trial of criminal cases are held by one Justice and two Justices of Sessions elected by the electors of the county where the court is held, and are called Courts of Oyer and Terminer. The Circuit Court and the Courts of Oyer and Terminer are held on the same day and continue for the same time, and the business of either is transacted as the occasion may require, the only difference being that when criminal business is transacted the Justices of Sessions must also be on the bench. A Special Term is also held in connection with each Circuit, whereat questions of law are determined.

The eight Judicial Districts of the State are again divided into five Judicial Departments, in each of which there is organized a General

Term of the Supreme Court, each of which is composed of a Presiding Justice and two Associate Justices, who are selected by the Governor from the whole number of Justices of the State. The Presiding Justice holds office as such during his judicial term, and the Associate Justices for five years, unless their judicial term sooner expires.

A General Term is held in each Judicial District of the Department at least once a year, and has jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals from the judgments and orders of the Circuit Courts, the Special Terms, the Courts of Oyer and Terminer and the County Courts within the Department. Appeals lie to the Court of Appeals from the orders and judgments of the General Term in certain cases specified by statute.

The County Clerks of the several counties are clerks of the Supreme Court in their respective counties, and the seal of such County Clerks are the seals of the court.

To entitle any person to admission as an attorney of the Supreme Court, he must be a citizen of the United States, twenty-one years of age, a resident of the Department within which he applies for admission, of good moral character, must have served a clerkship of three years in the office of a practicing attorney of the Supreme Court, and must pass a satisfactory examination by a committee appointed by the Court. An allowance of one year on the clerkship is made to graduates of colleges and universities, and of so much additional time, not exceeding one year to such graduates, or two years to non-graduates, as was actually spent in attendance upon law lectures in any law school of the State. Any person who holds a degree in law from any law school out of this State which maintains a course of instruction covering at least two academic years of not less than eight months each and gives its degrees only after public examination, shall be allowed the time spent in such law school (not exceeding two years), in lieu of any equal period of clerkship in a law office. Under this rule one year at least must be spent in a law office. At the expiration of two years after the admission of a person as an attorney, he may apply to the General Term for examina-
